Maestra Delgado | Week #11
Noviembre 3, 2023

NOTAS de Maestra:

We had a wonderful week! The students have been working very well with the AALPA project. I am very proud of all of them. Today during the devotion we talked about the power of words. Words are very important because we can bring life or death to someone's life with our words. We read some Bible verses in Proverbs. I would like to share with you Proverbs 18:21: "Death and life are in the power of the tongue, and those who love it will eat its fruit."

Have a wonderful blessed weekend!

Announcements:

Dear parents, the ZCS Servant Leader Team is holding a donation drive! We are partnering with Sus Manos Gleaners to bring medical supplies to Haiti. We are asking YOU to help. Some needs are: Toothpaste, Toothbrushes, Flip flops, Rehydration powder, Bar soap, Washcloths, Band-aids. We will have donation boxes in Mr. Paauw's office, the front office, and the preschool office. We will be collecting these items from now until November 7.

From the Immersion Director:

When I interact with people who are unfamiliar with immersion education, I am often asked how it is possible for children to learn academic concepts at the same time they are learning a new language. I briefly explain that our immersion teachers are experts at something called counterbalanced instruction. This is basically a technical way of saying that our teachers artfully dance between teaching content and teaching language concepts. We know that language is best learned within a meaningful context; therefore, while teaching math (or science or any other subject) our teachers will have both content and language goals. They will be teaching multiplication but will quickly side step to highlight a language feature that came through in the instructions or the story problem. While teaching social studies, they might ask the students to circle four past tense verbs in the text about the civil war. It is truly a beautiful thing to watch how our immersion teachers weave counterbalanced instruction into all of their teaching!
